NOTE: THE PRIVACY ACT (5 USC 552a (b)) REQUIRES THE COMPLETION OF THIS FORM IN ORDER FOR CONGRESSMAN JAMES E. CLYBURN TO RECEIVE INFORMATION ON BEHALF CONSTITUENTS.

Description of Issue

I respectfully request congressional assistance regarding several matters involving federal agencies, a federal defense contractor, and recent events affecting my personal safety.

First, I received an email from the Department of War stating that they had received a fax concerning a Privacy Statement related to me that was allegedly sent from Congressman Jim Clyburn's office by mistake. After receiving that communication, I contacted Congressman Clyburn's office directly and was informed by a representative that the office had not received a Privacy Release Form from me and had not sent any communication or fax on my behalf to the Department of War or any other federal agency.

After learning this information, I replied to the email from the Department of War requesting clarification regarding the origin of the fax referenced in their message and why my information was allegedly transmitted to their office. I did not receive any follow-up response to that inquiry.

Because Congressman Clyburn's office confirmed that they did not send any fax related to me, I am requesting assistance in determining the origin of the fax referenced by the Department of War and whether my personal information was transmitted or accessed without authorization.

Additionally, I am currently involved in federal litigation involving Curtiss-Wright Electro-Mechanical Corporation, a defense contractor involved in naval shipbuilding and other federal defense-related work. During the course of that litigation, Curtiss-Wright has represented to the Court that it did not receive federal financial assistance. In support of that position, Curtiss-Wright submitted a declaration from its Chief Financial Officer, Eric Cotton, stating that the company had not received any federal funding.

However, information obtained through a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request indicates that Curtiss-Wright did in fact receive federal funding. Because Curtiss-Wright is a federal defense contractor, the accuracy of statements regarding federal funding is a matter of significant concern and may warrant review by appropriate federal oversight authorities.

The litigation itself has also become increasingly adversarial and burdensome. As a pro se litigant, I have experienced repeated discovery disputes and difficulties obtaining evidence necessary to support my claims. I believe certain litigation tactics employed during the discovery process have created significant barriers to obtaining relevant evidence and have unnecessarily prolonged the proceedings.

Finally, on [insert date], I experienced a vandalism incident at my residence. I observed two individuals leaving the side of my property in a white Chevrolet Equinox after I instructed them to leave. After they departed, I inspected the area and discovered that one of my windows had been cracked and a hole had been made in the window.

Given the combination of these events, including the unexplained communication involving the Department of War, issues involving a federal defense contractor and representations regarding federal funding, and the recent vandalism incident at my residence, I respectfully request assistance from Congressman Clyburn's office in obtaining clarification from the appropriate federal agencies regarding these matters.

Specifically, I am requesting assistance in determining:

1. Whether any fax or Privacy Act documentation related to me was transmitted to the Department of War or another federal agency.
2. The origin of the fax referenced in the email I received.
3. Whether my personal information has been transmitted or accessed without authorization.
4. Whether Curtiss-Wright or its affiliated entities received federal funding during the relevant time period and whether statements made regarding that funding are consistent with federal records.

I appreciate any assistance Congressman Clyburn's office can provide in helping obtain clarification from the appropriate federal agencies.
